

IN 2014, MORE THAN 7,400 VETERANS TOOK THEIR OWN LIVES, 18% OF ALL AMERICAN SUICIDES.

Veterans are responsible for almost 21% of domestic violence.

1 in 10 returning soldiers seen in VA have a problem with alcohol or other drugs.

Warriors and their families too often lack resources and opportunities for meaningful faith conversations.

WE CAN'T IGNORE A PERSON'S SPIRITUAL LIFE AND EXPECT THEM TO FUNCTION AS A WHOLE WARRIOR.

Scott McChrystal, Col. Chaplain, US Army (Ret)

"We have shut God out.. but what we are saying now—what so many won't say because of political correctness—is that we believe there is a Creator in charge of all this stuff and we think we need to get him involved.

thewarriorsjourney.org

The Warrior's Journey is an online resource for military warriors and their families. The site presents the message of the gospel as a path to finding wholeness in everyday life. Thanks to our Partnerships with various foundations and nonprofits, we are able to present a wide range of resources that cover the unique challenges that warriors face, both in the field and at home.

"The efforts of 'The Warrior's Journey' are having a profound effect on building, and even rebuilding, the lives of our Warriors. This organization is offering opportunities to every Warrior, and to their families, on a scale never seen before. I'm confident that through their relational work, we will continue to see an impactful difference in the lives of all our troops, and those connected to them." – Gen. Stanley McChrystal
 U.S. Army, Retired
